Challenge for the first week in August

Have you ever wondered why Father Fred always wears green vestments and Deacon Victor always wears a green stole? Are there other colors of vestments still in storage after the move to our new church or is that the only color choice? Read about the color of vestments below following the daily readings and the Sunday lectionary posting.

Daily Readings for the first week of August

Sunday Readings for August 8th (Nineteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time):

First Reading from 1st Book of Kings 19:4-8 - During Elijah's journey in the desert, he became discouraged, asked God to take his life, and fell asleep. In a dream, an angel ordered him to get up, eat, drink, and continue his journey. Strengthened by the food, he continued walking for forty days and forty nights to Mount Horeb, the mountain of God.

Responsorial Psalm Ps 34:2-9 - "Taste and see the goodness of the Lord."

Second Reading from Paul's Letter to the Ephesians 4:30—5:2 - Remove all anger, malice and bitterness from you. Instead, be kind, compassionate and forgiving. Live in love as Christ loved us. Be imitators of God as you are beloved children of God.

Gospel of John 6:41-51 - The Israelites grumbled against Jesus when He said that He was the bread that came down from heaven. The people knew Jesus and His family. How could He say that He came down from heaven? Jesus offered them a retort, saying that he was sent by the Father and that the people must listen to the Father and learn from the Father. In that way, they will be raised up on the last day, for whoever believes has eternal life. Jesus re-minded them that their ancestors ate manna which was food for the body, but He repeated that He was living bread that has come down from heaven.

This week's answer about vestments and their colors

The outermost garment worn by the priest for Mass is called a chasuble. It is worn over the white alb along with a stole around the neck. The stole and chasuble are typical of travel garments worn in the late Roman Empire. The word comes from the Latin word casula or "little house." The stole is a band of colored cloth and was a sign of dignity worn by imperial officials in the Roman Empire. Some have surmised that it might be derived from the custom of rabbis wearing a Jewish prayer shawl around their necks. All of these vestments have carried over from these earlier traditions and have become standard in the Catholic Church for celebrants to wear during Masses.

But back to the original question of why Fr. Fred's chasuble is the color of green. The answer is simple: Liturgical vestment colors change with the liturgical season we are currently celebrating. Go back and check out the weekly bulletin for July 19-25, 2021, for an article about liturgical seasons.

But again, back to the color issue. Different liturgical colors are assigned to the various liturgical seasons as follows:

- Green = Sundays in ordinary time (which is the current liturgical season)
- Violet = Sundays in Advent and for funerals
- Purple = Sundays in Lent
- Rose = Gaudete Sunday (3rd Sunday of Advent) and Laetare Sunday (4th Sunday in Lent) to signify the coming hope of the Nativity and the Resurrection
- White = Christmas time, Easter season, Feasts of most saints, Feasts of the Lord, Feasts of Mary (if blue is not worn)
- Red = Pentecost, Palm Sunday, Good Friday, Feasts of martyrs
- Black = Formerly used for funeral Masses (which now use White vestments to signify resurrection)
